

R&D Chemist

Philadelphia area based manufacturer of specialty coatings for the printing and graphic arts market seeking a degreed chemist. Company is part of a global chemical business headquartered in Germany. Primary focus will be to develop new products and processes in the Graphic Arts market and focusing on Over Print Varnishes (OPV) on commercial and packaging materials. Design and conduct research projects where the complexity of the technical problems requires advanced knowledge and scientific specialization. This is a hands-on lab position in product development, R&D and testing. Chemist will work with customers and salesmen to trouble shoot problems. Could also travel to customers for on press trouble shooting & evaluating processes. Will meet with suppliers to help find new and innovative raw materials to enhance product line. Chemist will also work externally with other company divisions in the US and Europe.

Interested candidates should submit their resumes via facsimile to (856) 764-4408.